

Publisher's Letter

We hope you'll be happy to hear

We're Going Bimonthly!

No more confusion about when your next issue is scheduled to arrive or, even worse, whether you missed one!

Since its start, Sawmill & Woodlot magazine has published on an admittedly unusual schedule: February,

March, April, May/June, July, August/September, October/November, December/January. In addition to those issues, we publish a yearly Buyer's Guide.

OK, you're right, that's a pretty weird schedule and it's hard to remember, so we're going to change it.

We think it makes sense for us to move to a traditional bi-monthly publication schedule. So, next year, 2020, the magazine will publish the following issues:

January/February, March/April, May/June, July/August, September/October, November/December. Plus, you'll receive the Annual Buyer's Guide in the January/February time frame.

There will not be a reduction in the number of articles and columns over the period of a year, we'll just be packaging them on a more predictable and standard publication schedule. We'll remind you of this again when your January/February 2020 issue arrives, but I bet this time our schedule will be easier to remember and you'll know when to anticipate your issues.

Efficiently saw and flatten wide slabs with Wood-Mizer wide slab equipment!

Combine the NEW LX250 wide slab sawmill with the NEW SlabMizer slab flattener to produce finished wood slabs, burls, cookies, and other wide material with minimal labor and reduced waste. Start by sawing extra-wide logs up to 55" in diameter with the LX250 sawmill that utilizes thin-kerf blades and powered head controls. Finish by flattening extra-wide material up to 56" with the SlabMizer slab flattener that utilizes powered cutter head directional controls with variable feed speed. In addition to reducing production time and increasing yield, you'll love the way your slabs look.
